

CONSIDER MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANT AND RAISE PAY OF STREET FORCE

Board of Public Works Has Not Signed Contract for Street Lighting—Made John Street a One-Way Street—To Try Out Beacon Traffic Signals Here—Other Matters at Busy Session Monday.

The city has not signed a contract for street lighting with the Kingston Gas & Electric Company as yet as the board of public works considers the figures submitted by the company to light the streets entirely too high and unjustified.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of public works held Monday evening Commissioner Frank B. Matthews in bringing up the matter of street lighting said that the rates submitted by the electric company were much higher than the rates charged individuals, and for that reason he introduced a resolution that the city engineer be instructed to obtain all available information as to the cost of a municipal electric light plant for the city. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

City Engineer Darrow was instructed to secure the information at an early date as possible and report back to the board when, if the plan appears feasible, it will be submitted to the voters of the city to determine whether it would not be cheaper for the city to own its own electric plant.

Street Force Pay Raised.
A petition, signed by practically every man employed in the street department, asking for an increase in wages was read. The rate of pay today for teams is $7; single rigs, $5.15; laborers, $3, and auto drivers, $4 per day.

After considerable discussion the board unanimously adopted a motion that all employees of the street department be notified that the board expects them to produce more results hereafter or they will be promptly laid off. The board also adopted a resolution that no teams which were underfed should be kept in the employ of the city.

Living conditions in Kingston today are as high, or higher than during the war, and for that reason the board decided to grant the employees the following increase in wages effective June 1, and continuing in force through the summer:

The amount asked for in the petition and that granted.

Under the present wage scale street sweepers are receiving $3 per day, and after June 1 will receive 25 cents a day more.

First Avenue Sewer.
There was a large delegation of residents of First Avenue present at the meeting in regard to the building of a sewer in that avenue from the railroad crossing to Moore street.

A number of property owners had filed a petition requesting the extension of the sewer, and there had also been filed with the board a petition opposing the building of the sewer.

After a hearing the board referred the matter to the city engineer and street committee to make an investigation at once and see if a sewer was needed.

Desire Parking Place.
W. C. Kingman, of the Canfield Supply Company, sent in a communication calling attention to the need of a parking place in the downtown section of the city for automobiles to relieve congestion on lower Broadway and the Strand.

Commissioners Hillebrand and Matthews were appointed a committee to see Mr. Kingman to take up the question of having a committee of business men from that end of the city make suggestions as to where the proposed parking place should be located.

Merritt Avenue Water.
Alderman W. B. Martin filed with the board a communication he had received from the water board regarding the extension of water service in Merritt Avenue, in which the water board stated it was willing to do so provided it had the assurance of the board of public works that the street would be made to conform to grade after the water was in. The communication was referred to the city engineer and street committee.

West O'Reilly Street Repairs.
C. T. Lasher of No. 45 West O'Reilly street, wrote calling attention to West O'Reilly street, which he said was used largely by auto traffic and badly in need of repairs, and asking that something be done. The letter was referred to the superintendent and street committee.

John Street a One Way Street.
A communication from the police board recommending that John Street be made a one-way street was read. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood was present at the meeting and stated it would relieve traffic conditions upon it that was done.

The board decided to adopt an ordinance making the street a one-way street with entrance at Clinton Avenue and exit at Green street.

The present parking ordinance in effect on that street will also be kept in force, and in addition will be amended to prohibit parking 50 feet from the entrance to the street, and parking grounds on both sides of the street.

On Saturday night with automobiles parked near the parking place

It is difficult to enter or leave the parking grounds which is the reason for adopting the amendment prohibiting parking there.

Other Matters.
Ida Winchell of No. 61 Staples street wrote asking why something had not been done toward improving the upper end of that street. It was referred to the street committee.

The C. & C. Tire & Repair Company of No. 85 North Front street asked permission to place air line to curb as they were about to place a concrete walk in front of the store. Referred to superintendent and street committee.

Edward T. McGill wrote asking permission to install water and air distributor in front of Martin's Garage, 305 Broadway, which was referred to the superintendent and street committee.

The A. R. Newcombe Oil Corporation asked permission to place tank and pump on the Boulevard in front of the place of Louis Bowers. Permission was granted.

G. Wenzel wrote for permission to install sign over sidewalk at 38 McEntee street which was referred to the superintendent with power.

Robert R. Rodie of 83 Albany avenue asked permission to connect with sewer which was granted.

The Blue Bird Gift Shop in Hotel Ulster building asked permission to install sign over sidewalk which was referred to superintendent with power.

Spruce Street Sewer.
A petition from the residents of Spruce street asking for the extension of the sanitary sewer was referred to the superintendent and street committee.

Eliminate Canfield Park?
Residents in the vicinity of Canfield Park sent in a petition asking the board not to use the park this summer as there was so much noise that it was a nuisance to the neighborhood. The petition was filed.

Traffic Beacons.
A representative of American Gas Accumulator Company of Elizabeth, N. J. was present and desired to install some of the company's traffic beacons on trial.

A lengthy discussion followed. Chief Wood of the police department was in favor of giving the beacons a trial.

These beacons weigh nearly a ton, and flash warning signals day and night at the rate of 60 flashes a minute, and work automatically for six to nine months without the tank containing the gas having to be refilled. The operating cost of the beacons is about 2 cents per day.

The board decided to have five beacons installed which will be done within three weeks time by the company.

Some Ordinances.
City Engineer Darrow submitted ordinances for construction of a sewer on Elizabeth street, and on Hasbrouck avenue from Hasbrouck Place south for a distance of two hundred feet, and an ordinance for the grading of Derrenbacher street.

The board also disposed of a number of routine matters before adjourning.

ASSEMBLYMAN LONG NOT TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Assemblyman Lincoln R. Long, who has represented Delaware county in the Assembly at Albany for the last five years, has announced through the Delaware Express that he will not run for re-election this fall. Assemblyman Long has grown to be quite a prominent figure in the Assembly and during the last year he was chairman of the excise committee of that body. He is a former pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church in this city.

Poughkeepsie Mohonk's Station.
The Lake Mohonk Mountain House, which has been open for the season since May 12, is giving Poughkeepsie a tryout as its only regular railway station and the first weekly bulletin says that a week's trial seems to justify the expectation that the new plan will work to the advantage of arriving guests.

The first day of the season brought a larger number of guests than ever before at such an early opening. This is the 54th season for the hotel.

POLICEMEN SHOT MAKING ARREST

Two Jersey City Officers Dead, Two Wounded Before Frank J. Sayes, Suspected Holdup, and Woman Companion, Are Captured.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Jersey City, N. J., May 22.—Two policemen were shot and killed and two wounded early today at 19 Manhattan avenue where they had gone to arrest Frank J. Sayes, alias Frank Miller, wanted in connection with a holdup.

The dead: John Black, a detective sergeant. Clarence Ware, patrolman.

The wounded: James Walton, flesh wound in the head.

Lieut. Harry Otis, of West New York, N. J., shot through back, bullet entering stomach.

Sayes, alleged slayer of the policeman, was captured. He was subdued after a fight with other policemen and severely beaten.

A woman, who claimed to be Sayes's wife, also was arrested.

The possibility that the woman helped Sayes do the shooting was being investigated by police. Powder marks were said to have been found upon the woman's hands.

After the shooting, Sayes took refuge in the attic of the house a two story and frame structure.

He was brought out by the use of tear gas bombs.

In spite of the exchange of shots, Sayes was not wounded. In subduing him, however, police beat him badly.

The woman refused to give any information concerning herself or Sayes. Police said they recognized her as May Miller, a frequent dancer at dance halls.

ST. LAWRENCE ICE CAUSES DISASTER

330 Rescued From Sinking Liner—Coal and Whiskey Lost When Two Other Vessels Come to Grief.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Halifax, N. S., May 22.—The Canadian Pacific Steamship Empress of Britain, enroute from Liverpool to Quebec, reported by wireless today that she had picked up 330 persons from the 11,000 ton steamship Marvale, which was sunk yesterday in the St. Lawrence river.

The Marvale was formerly the Allan Liner Corsican. When lost she was being operated by the Canadian Pacific Company. She was groping her way through a thick fog off the Newfoundland coast when she struck a rock near Trepassay.

A gaping hole was torn in the vessel's hull. Her engines were reversed and the ship was backed off, but she was so badly damaged it was impossible to beach her. The passengers and crew were taken ashore in small boats but later were picked up by the Empress of Britain which was diverted from her course to take them back to Quebec.

Fog and ice has done heavy damage to shipping. The coal carrier Glen Murrell from Sydney for Montreal was wrecked in St. George's bay.

The White Star Liner Oxonian, from Montreal for Liverpool, was damaged by ramming an ice floe and was compelled to put into St. John's for repairs.

The schooner Marcella was crushed by ice and sank with her cargo of 1,200 cases of whiskey off Cape Breton.

At St. John's Church.
There will be no service at St. John's Episcopal Church on Thursday morning of this week, as is the custom, owing to the fact that the district women's auxiliary meeting will be held that day at St. Paul's Church, Newburgh. The morning program will open with the service of holy communion at 10:30 a'clock and there will also be an afternoon session.

250 WORKERS START OUT TO GET $25,000 FOR Y. W. C. A. THIS WEEK

Much at First Meeting to Inspire Confidence—Directors Alone Pledge $1,800—Mr. Reagan Talks of Spiritual Help Y. W. C. A. Gives Girls.

There is now over $2,000 in the Y. W. C. A. Building Fund and the intensive canvass for funds is but one day old. The goal is $25,000, to be reached by Saturday night. The "clock" shown above will record the approximate totals from day to day.

The present headquarters of the Young Women's Christian Association of Kingston presented a sight Monday evening to gladden the heart of every person interested in this new and needed project for the girls and women of Kingston. The headquarters were most attractive with a huge American flag covering the wall behind the table where the speakers and board of directors, etc., were seated. All about the walls were most attractive and appealing Y. W. C. A. posters. But best of all, even better than the attractively set-up tables at six o'clock, and that's going some, was the crowd of team workers. There must have been over two hundred girls and women present, with just enough men to round out the number to two hundred and fifty. And it must be remembered that those two hundred and odd girls and women will go out after funds to make possible this Y. W. C. A. project and they expect to have that $25,000 by Saturday night.

That settles it. They'll get it, is the prophecy of the Freeman reporter present at the meeting judging from the business-like enthusiasm and energy displayed.

Mrs. G. F. Rice, president of the Board of Directors of the Y. W. C. A., and an ideal presiding officer, acted as mistress of ceremonies—though the meeting was not at all ceremonious—and called upon the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady to ask the blessing. Throughout the dinner, the girls who have been learning Y. W. C. A. songs with Miss Capen, put pep and life into the affair by singing pertinent, very pertinent songs that were short and snappy and called forth considerable applause.

After the dinner, Mrs. Rice stated that the woman of Kingston had been working long and hard to secure for Kingston girls and women a Young Women's Christian Association and now they were going out to ask everybody to contribute toward the necessary funds to carry on such a permanent organization.

As Mayor Crane found it impossible to be present, Mrs. Rice called upon the Rev. Frank J. Seelye to represent him. Mr. Seelye said that in a conversation over the telephone with Mayor Crane, the latter had stated that he considered that there was no greater need for Kingston today than a Young Women's Christian Association; that he wished the project all success and would gladly cooperate in any way possible. (Applause.)

Then the speaker of the evening, Mr. Reagan, head master of Oakwood School for girls and boys at Poughkeepsie, was introduced. It was evident from Mr. Reagan's first words, that he knew nothing about money, that he had not been asked to speak in the interest of the funds needed.

He made it very plain that he came to speak for the real thing back of the Y. W. C. A. Building, the Christian spirit which is at the foundation of real friendship no matter what the social or financial differences may be.

Mr. Reagan said there were three rules of a good speech and they were:

First—Tell WHAT you are going to tell.

Second—TELL what you are going to tell.

Third—Tell what you have to tell and sit down.

With so many Christians today, not Christians in anything but name, the speaker expressed the belief that no city was safe that had not real Christian forces back of it, for today is a day of the spirit rather than of material. While many ministers do not keep up to the times, Mr. Reagan did not count them any more backward than the people who would not go to church, any church, for there had never been a time when he thought it was more necessary than at present, to tie up to some church. Mr. Reagan admitted that he was a minister himself and was glad of it.

Knowing boys and girls, he believed in boys and girls being together but quite felt for both the boy who wanted to know some nice girl, and the girl who want to know some nice boy. Along this line he told of a recent dinner which the Y. W. C. A. in Poughkeepsie had given for the Eastman College students, a splendid affair for both girls and boys.

The speaker said that the Y. W. C. A. was in no sense a substitute for the church.

STANLEY BALDWIN IS NAMED PREMIER OF ENGLAND; CURZON TO KEEP JOB

Horne's Succession to Exchequer Portfolio Only Change Expected in Cabinet Which Remains Conservative—Baldwin's a Quick Rise.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, May 22.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin was designated this afternoon by King George as premier of England in succession to Andrew Bonar Law, who resigned because of ill health.

Chancellor Baldwin was acting premier during the recent absence of Bonar Law on the continent.

The government continues to be Tory in politics.

Appointment of Chancellor Baldwin was made practically certain this afternoon when he was summoned to Buckingham Palace for a long conference with King George.

He left the palace at ten minutes after four. Although in a jubilant and jovial frame of mind, the chancellor had nothing to say to the press.

Baldwin's rise in public life has been quick. He gained much popularity while chancellor of the exchequer for reducing taxes, reducing the price of beer and negotiating a settlement of the British war debt to the United States.

Baldwin's chief rival for premiership was Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary. Curzon was opposed by the Tory die hards and by a coalition Labor-Liberal group.

It is understood that the failure to name Curzon was a sop to the Laborites who bitterly opposed the appointment of a member of the House of Lords to the premiership.

The cabinet is expected to resign automatically tonight. The resignations, according to custom, would be put in the new premier's hands as soon as his appointment was officially announced. It is the usual procedure for the new premier to wait about 24 hours before announcing the personnel of the cabinet.

In this instance few changes are anticipated. It is believed that Sir Robert Horne will succeed Baldwin as chancellor of the exchequer and that Lord Curzon will continue as foreign secretary.

Baldwin was slightly nervous but smiling when he returned to 10 Downing street.

"I need your prayers more than your congratulations," said he to an International News Service correspondent. "I cannot say more. An official announcement will be made at once."

BREAKS WOODEN LEG AND STUMP

Harrison Winchell of No. 613 Broadway was knocked down by an auto driven by Asa Krom near Stone Ridge late Monday afternoon and brought to the Kingston City Hospital. Winchell lost one of his legs some time ago and wore an artificial leg. The auto struck him in the injured leg breaking a bone in the stump and smashing the artificial leg. In the car with Krom at the time was Sid Ross, portside of the Colonials. After the accident Krom hurried Winchell to the hospital and later reported the accident to the police department.

Surprised on 48th Anniversary.
Saturday, May 19, was the forty-eight anniversary of the marriage of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. P. N. Chase, 15 Green street, this city. They were married in Windham, Greece county, by the late Rev. Dr. A. K. Sanford at that time the presiding elder of this district. They were much broken in health by overwork in study and teaching when they were married and have been hard workers during the years, and it is a wonder to their friends that they are alive and in fairly good health when so near their golden anniversary. A few people in Kingston heard of the anniversary and showered the white-haired couple with messages of love, and a prominent W. C. T. U. woman sent something much more substantial. For nearly four years Dr. Chase has supplied the little church at East Kingston. It had been intimated to him that it might be well for him to be at home Saturday night, but he and Mrs. Chase were hardly prepared for the several auto loads whose occupants thronged

SCHENECTADY CAR BARN STONED

Company, Refusing to Recognize Union, Mobilizes Strike Breakers and Prepares to Resume Services.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Schenectady, May 22.—The Fuller street barns of the Schenectady Railway Company, in which, it is estimated, about 100 strike breakers are lodged, were bombarded by stones by a crowd of boys early today. Police quickly dispersed the crowd.

The company is expected to attempt to resume operation of its cars, which were tied up by a strike a week ago, today or tomorrow. Careful plans have been made by the police to prevent trouble when the strike breakers run the first car out of the barns. Commissioner of Public Safety John E. Cole, has decided however, that the police will not ride the cars with the strike breakers.

An investigation by State Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shienstag into the causes of the strike is expected to be started this afternoon. Refusal of the company to recognize the union is regarded as the direct cause of the strike.

BRYAN LECTURES THE PRESBYTERIANS

Gets General Assembly to Endorse "Teetotal" Pledge but Moderator Opposes Some of Other Policies—Darwinian Theory and Negro Problems to the Fore.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Indianapolis, Ind., May 22.—The possibility of the famous Fosdick case coming up for discussion before the meeting of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of America, enlivened the deliberations here today. Successful on only one issue, that of having a "teetotal" pledge endorsed, and defeated in his ambition with regard to other matters, William Jennings Bryan was expected to give the Presbyterians his view on what should be preached in the pulpit.

Others, however, among the Presbyterian commissioners entertained strong views on the subject, among them the moderator, Dr. Charles F. Wishart, who, although not definitely aligned with the Liberals, has been lined up against Bryan on most of the matters which he has brought to the forefront of the assembly.

So far as the subject of teaching Darwinian theories to Presbyterian schools goes, Bryan will have much support in the assembly if he succeeds in projecting the issue. He stands for the apostles creed, all of it, and without reservations has reached a sympathetic chord with other commissioners.

Much attention to the problems of the colored race in education and religion has been given by the assembly, although attempts by the negro commissioners to have better representation on the church bodies was defeated by a vote of the commissioners.

The Rev. J. E. Jackson, principal of the Andrew Robertson Institute at Aiken, S. C. was one of the principal spokesmen for the colored representatives.

"In God's own time and in his own way," he said, "through the instrumentality of his own people and his own race, the colored race will get all that's coming to it."

Knowing the proverbial barrenness of the minister's pantry, they brought beautiful provisions, woman sent something much more substantial. For nearly four years Dr. Chase has supplied the little church at East Kingston. It had been intimated to him that it might be well for him to be at home Saturday night, but he and Mrs. Chase were hardly prepared for the several auto loads whose occupants thronged

A picnic dinner was enjoyed by all with all the good things which helped to make it a success. A splendid program was arranged for an outdoor entertainment. A costume dance was given by junior members of the home school. Several good numbers were given by individual pupils. Especial mention is made of the play by the Woodstock seniors entitled "Treasure Island," of which the costumes were no small part. Interesting games of football, basketball, etc. were later indulged in. A goodly number of parents were in attendance and altogether the day was voted a very pleasant one.

GRANGE OBSERVES ITS BIRTHDAY

Mt. Tremper, 1468, Organized Three Years Ago and Now a Lusty Youngster, Entertains With Own Talent.

The third anniversary of the organization of Mt. Tremper Grange, No. 1468, was observed Saturday night when a very elaborate banquet was served to the members and friends in the Grange Hall at that place. About 175 persons were served. Although the committee in charge of the celebration had provided for about 150 plates the additional twenty-five were quickly provided for when it became evident that they would be required to take care of the capacity crowd.

The hall had been very prettily decorated for the affair with pink and white streamers and each well laden table was lighted by a number of candles with a soft and soothing glow. The banquet was served by the young ladies and men of the Grange who take care of the wants of the guests in a most efficient manner.

District Deputy J. Wells Weaver, Jr., of Clintonville, was present and following the serving of the good things to eat congratulated the members of Mt. Tremper Grange upon the progress it had made during its brief existence. Although the organization has been in existence but three years it is evident from the manner in which the affair was put on Saturday night that the Grange is in a very thriving and healthy condition.

The dinner which consisted of grape-fruit, salad, chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, asparagus, celery, radishes, ice cream and coffee, was served in faultless manner and was thoroughly appreciated and left everyone in the proper spirit to drink a hearty toast with lemonade to the success of Mt. Tremper Grange.

At the conclusion of the banquet a very pleasing program was carried out. Pastmaster John Davidson of Mt. Tremper Grange acted as toastmaster. A toast offered by Mr. Davidson to the president and country was heartily responded to.

Ariste E. DeSilva the present master of the Grange, gave a brief outline of the work which has been accomplished by the organization since its institution and spoke of the many difficulties which had to be overcome during the organization period. The lecturer, Beatrice W. Zinkgraf, responded with a very clever and humorous talk on the future of the organization in which she painted a very fantastic and amusing picture with Mt. Tremper as the center of the universe and the Mt. Tremper Grange as a thriving organization with several thousand members occupying a most elaborate palace in which even the radio was dust covered and unused on account of its being replaced by the brilliant local talent of the village. Her picture was painted but thirty-three years hence and was a masterpiece of wit and humor.

District Deputy J. Wells Weaver, Jr., spoke of the work which had been accomplished by the Grange since its organization some fifty years ago and congratulated the Mt. Tremper Grange for its excellent work since its institution three years ago. He spoke also of the State and National Granges and told of the work which was being carried on by them. His father, John W. Weaver, in a brief talk continued along the same ideas.

Mrs. B. F. Cross of "Crosspatch" was also called upon and briefly congratulated the members of the Grange for the excellent time which had been provided and extended an invitation to everyone to attend the opening of "Crosspatch" on Memorial Day.

Mrs. J. Wells Weaver replied to a toast to the ladies and E. B. Miller of Roxmor Inn spoke of community life and the benefits of cooperation. Capt. B. F. Cross also gave a short talk in which he expressed his delight and appreciation of the evening's program and congratulated the men and women who had prepared and served the banquet.

During the program several musical numbers were given which delighted the large audience. The program was as follows:

When your boy grows up—

he'll have a strong body and a good mind if you give him the right food now.

Every morning, first thing in the day, serve him a big bowl of Mapl-Flake. He'll like it, and it's good for him. For—

Mapl-Flake is 25% bran—the whole of the wheat with the bran left in—enough to form a harmless, natural laxative.

In addition to the bran, there is all the nourishment of whole wheat, rich in phosphorus and lime for building brain, nerve and bone, and in iron for making good red blood. Yes—and the whole wheat contains the vitamins which science has learned are so necessary to growth and health.

That boy of yours won't know he's eating bran in Mapl-Flake. He'll like these sweetened, toasted flakes so much he'll WANT them every morning.

Not only your boy, but your whole family ought to eat Mapl-Flake. It is nourishing and the bran supplies roughage to "sweep" the digestive tract. Yet Mapl-Flake is "good eating."

New Sleeve Feature of Afternoon Gown

The material in this interesting outfit, the feature of which is the new sleeve, is a flat crepe of sand color, so very popular this season—printed in blue, and the banding is of blue to match the printed pattern.

Cotton Dresses in Variety for Spring

Cotton dresses in the early spring lines cover a wide range of material, from a plain fabric in a simple semi-sports model to a frilled dotted swiss that could grace a party. Linene, imported and domestic gingham, ratine, sponge, volles, French and Irish linens, dotted swiss and swiss organizes are made up in straight line tailored frocks as well as in those models that stress a slightly bouffant line at the hips.

Color is generously distributed. Brilliant red, green, blue and rose are ray in swiss organize and volle. Cutwork embroidery, solid designs, insertions of embroidery in color—all these are used to trim the sheer fabrics. Figured volle in dark colors makes a type that is not unlike a silk foulard. Ruffles and collars and cuffs of fine embroidered organdie are the major trimming for these.

In the linene group, allover embroidery is an important feature. Straight-line frocks insert a godet of plain fabric to accentuate more strongly the charm of the embroidered surface. These types, in pale shades of green and tan, present an interpretation of tailored linen that can be used equally well for sports or morning wear.

Gingham treated with plain chambrays, in belts, collars and inserts, is included in the line. One gingham dress has a bandanna collar.

Three-piece costumes in linen have braid embroidery and attractive blouses. One model has the blouse ruffled and trimmed with Paisley prints.

Artificial Silk and Fabric Laces Shown

There is a wide scope in the patterns of laces, as well as in colorings. Artificial silk and fabric laces are being made by one French manufacturer. These give more the appearance of woven fabric than of lace. They feature wide border patterns in brilliant colorings. Laces in cashmere designs and colorings are woven so closely that they resemble heavy silk crepe rather than an openwork mesh. Others, made of a combination of artificial silk and wool show a silk pattern standing out against a background of dull wool. These are effectively used for sports wear garments and are particularly striking in white patterned in bright colors.

Neutral tones, such as ecru, beige, tortoise and gray, are considered smart, despite the fact that there is an almost inexhaustible variety of colors from which to choose.

Frequently lace is combined with a matching shade of crepe de chine. The color note may be repeated in a girle made of rings of galathie set with imitation jewels. A charming model is made from a combination of soft brown crepe de chine and lace of a matching shade, the silk being used as trimming in the form of tiny plaits and small hand-made flowers.

Navy and White.

Navy blue and white, always a good combination for spring, is attractively featured this year. Figured prints show the combination, while dotted and striped silks are most effective and clean-cut in such contrast.

Beautiful Hemline.

Very narrow points, giving almost the appearance of fringe, edged with pearls, make an effective hem trimming on a frock of pale blue georgette.

Colored Net in Vogue.

Colored net is having a great vogue for curtains. Orange makes a dark room cheerful, while blue will subdue a room that seems to be glaring.

Mexicans Live Over Shops.

In the City of Mexico everybody lives over a shop. If the house be two stories, or uses the lower floor as a garage, stable or quarters for the servants. Even the millionaires often rent the ground floor of their fine residences for business purposes.

THE FORD BOOM.

According to report, Senator Harrison of Mississippi is of the opinion that if Henry Ford entered the primaries as a Democratic candidate for President he would "sweep" nearly all the Southern states, Alabama excepted. "Mr. Ford is strong in the South," the Senator is quoted, "because of his espousal of Muscle Shoals, and this has given him much strength with the farmers of the country." As a reason for nominating a man for President this leaves much to be desired. What would the Senator and the South think of a proposition to make a man President merely because of his "espousal" of some great industrial development in New England or the Middle West?

But doubtless many in the South and in the Middle West also are inclined to believe that if Henry Ford were President he would conduct the business of the government in the same way and with the same success that he has conducted his great automobile business, that he would promptly introduce the best business methods, cut down expenses and reduce taxes—forgetting the limitations that hedge a President round and that Congress, and especially the Senate, must be reckoned with. Nor has it perhaps occurred to Mr. Ford's admirers that such expectations might not be sustained by the event for other reasons, such as that government is a rather more complicated business than that of the Ford factory, requiring talents of a different if not more highly developed sort. Though it may be granted that far-reaching reorganization is needed at Washington, it does not follow that a worthy citizen who has achieved great wealth in the automobile business is fitted for the job. After all, real statesmanship and large vision are much more needed at the head of our government than business ability of the purely industrial sort.

"MOVIE" EDUCATION.

Called by the Federal Trade Commission, in its investigation of charges against the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Thomas A. Edison attributed to the movies vast influence on public opinion and immense importance as a medium of the education of children—as follows: "There is nothing so powerful as motion pictures in influencing people. They are the most powerful means of influencing people at the present time and will increase in power from year to year. Whoever controls the motion picture industry controls the most powerful medium of influence over people. I think motion pictures have just started. It is my opinion that in twenty years children will be taught through pictures and not through books." He added that he regarded motion pictures as 100 per cent perfect for teaching, and that they could influence people mightily for good or bad in a moral sense.

Many will regard all this as extravagant. No doubt the movies influence the vast public seeking such entertainment at small cost, but they influence the thinkers, the leaders, the writers of the world in only a slight degree if to any extent at all. And that they will ever actually supplant textbooks in the schools is altogether improbable. As an aid in such studies as geography they can and no doubt will be made very useful, but a poor sort of education would be that obtained merely by looking at motion pictures. The drill of the school room, the personal effort of the pupils, the questions and answers, the memorizing of facts and recitations from books, the acquirement of practical knowledge of mathematics, of penmanship, of English composition, to say nothing of languages, literature and the sciences, must go on if young minds are to be developed and youth is to be prepared to enter the uses of life.

The Rev. Phillips E. Osgood, a Minneapolis minister of the Episcopal Church, urges the churches to confine the wireless broadcasting of their service to week days so that Sunday may be left free for public worship. "The number of able-bodied folk," he says, "who use wireless as a pretext for absence from church is apparently much greater than the number of those who could not get to church." However that may be, it is stated that church attendance has been frequently cut 30 per cent when the service coincided with the broadcasting hour.

The most serious criticism of American motion pictures that are sent abroad is brought by the Sulgrave Institute, which reports that they are doing injury to the relations between British and American peoples because they "belittle, misinform and cause American life to be held in contempt."

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Why do you find young trees growing so thickly about the roots of some trees like the poplar, for instance, and not around most trees?

2. Is fur farming a practical business to go into?

3. I read somewhere that there are no blue birds in England. Is this true?

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. I have had the same three goldfish 13 years. They lay eggs, but always eat them. Can I raise fishes from the eggs?

It can be done, the goldfish being a domestic fish, but the instructions are too elaborate to give here. Consult Fishes in the Home by I. M. Mellen, sold for 55 cents postpaid by the New York Aquarium. Eggs must be kept at an even temperature, about 70 degrees, in good light and with a little sunshine daily. Hatching will take place in five or six days, or sooner if the temperature is warm. The fry has to be sorted out as to size, some developing earlier than others, and at two weeks of age, showing tendency to devour smaller brethren.

2. Do birds in wild nature lay double yolked eggs as do our domestic fowls? Please give a theoretical reason for the double yolk.

Presumably they may, but we do not know whether or not the case has been observed. Chickens hatched from a double-yolk egg are likely to be attached in some way to each other, at the wings, for instance, by continuous membranes, and will quickly perish and probably not be seen. The cause of the double yolk is supposed to be the escape of two minute eggs so closely pressed together that the same white and shell forms around the embryo egg.

3. Is there any snake called queen snake? Is it any relation to the king snake?

There is a queen snake, Tropidonotus lebeis, of an entirely different genus from the king snake, Aquila. Back dark brown, indistinctly striped with black; a yellowish stripe at each side; belly yellow and dark brown stripes. A well-grown specimen may be two feet long. Common in Ohio and found east of the Mississippi, but not common in the northern or southern parts of its range.

CROSSPATCH HOUSE TO OPEN DECORATION DAY

Crosspatch Community House will open its summer season with a dance on the evening of Decoration Day, May 30.

Crosspatch House has been fixed up for the summer with several picturesque features and looks very pretty.

Mrs. Cross says the road is in fairly good condition. Cars come up every day for the trout fishing in Silver Hollow stream—which is mostly on Crosspatch property and about a mile beyond the Community House. None of the fishermen complain of the road. Last Sunday morning the Cross family found three high grade cars parked in the front yard when they got up. All the owners reported good catches, but as they didn't leave any trout, it was inferred that there are still plenty in the stream, waiting for the owners to take a day off and go get them.

Mrs. Cross hopes that the prospect of dancing, hot dogs, and a general good time will prove as good an attraction as the fishing and that many cars will be parked at Crosspatch on the evening of Decoration Day.

Crosspatch Notes.
Mrs. Sarah Heyser of Ashokan, is the first lady to drive a car up to Crosspatch. She came up a few days ago to visit Mrs. Harvey Ostrander, who lives some distance beyond Crosspatch. Mrs. Heyser said her Chevrolet behaved finely on the hills but she left the car at Crosspatch and she and her husband walked the rest of the way.

Crosspatch has a new incinerator for burning waste paper and trash. It is absolutely safe even when mountain sales blow furiously. The incinerator is of home manufacture and involves an idea, perhaps not used in those on the market. It is seen by visitors on request.

Mrs. Cross has designed a setting of field stones for a patterned after one she saw at the very fashionable "Ye Olde Mill Tea Room," Rock Creek Park, Washington, D. C., where the diplomats and statesmen rather than their ladies for afternoon tea. The incinerator itself is however an invention of Capt. Cross.

That pedigreed Airplane "Rex" is in trouble again. Being a city dog he will hunt porcupines. One never knows what happens to them—but Rex comes home with his mouth full of sharp quills. Like some people, he is in a very chastened mood until the whole family and most of the neighborhood have taken turns getting him out of trouble. But he will forget and go after the next porcupine he sees.

Rex has concluded to stay at Crosspatch, and strays no further than Willow, but this porcupine habit keeps the family from thoroughly enjoying his high bred society.

A lady from New Rochelle wrote the other day to ask if this would be a pleasant time to visit the Community House. She was advised that June might be more comfortable as to weather. It has been very chilly on Cross mountain all through May. Mrs. Cross is glad she didn't come from Florida any earlier.

MILTON.

Milton, May 21.—Curtis W. Northrip is building an addition to his residence on Church street.

Miss Jane Woolsey of Highland gave a variety shower last Saturday afternoon at her home for Miss Blanche Macker of Milton, who will be married to Curtis W. Northrip in June.

CHICAGO DRAINAGE CANAL

The Chicago Drainage Canal ranks well to the fore among the great engineering feats of modern times.

The purpose of its construction was twofold. Primarily to purify Chicago's supply of drinking water, which is obtained from Lake Michigan, by reversing the flow of the Chicago river so that the sewage from the city, instead of being dumped into the lake, would be carried off into the Des Plaines river which in turn empties into the Illinois river. Ultimately, to provide a ship canal from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico.

Commenced in September, 1892, and formally opened in January, 1900, this so-called canal is approximately forty miles in length, has a minimum depth of twenty-two feet, varies in width from 100 to 200 feet at the top, and has a capacity of about 300,000 cubic feet of water per minute.

Four major operations were involved in this huge task. First, the Chicago river had to be both widened and deepened for more than five miles; next the digging of a canal for twenty-eight miles; then the river had to be diverted from the old to the new channel and finally the building of a tail race and a new channel for seven miles.

Grave fears were entertained by many that the cities past which this diverted sewage must flow and which obtained their supplies of drinking water from this stream would be visited by an epidemic of water-borne diseases, particularly typhoid. Again the question as to whether the taking of sufficient water from Lake Michigan to flush the canal would adversely affect the interests of the states and cities bordering on the lake, through the lowering of the surface of the water in the lake, and in turn interfere with the navigable capacity of the rivers which flow into the lake, was long and seriously discussed.

But scientific examination and investigation failed to substantiate the threatened dangers from disease; the imagined damage to the navigation interests of the Lake Michigan region failed to materialize.

That Chicago has benefited immeasurably from a sanitary standpoint there is not the question of a doubt, according to the reports of the health department. When the locks in the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers, which connect the canal with the Mississippi river are increased in size and the fixed bridges which span the canal in the Chicago zone are transformed to swinging or lift bridges, it is expected that barges and light-draft river craft will move in large numbers from Chicago, through this man-made channel, to New Orleans.

USED HIS BRAIN

How Young Italian Cultivated Marvelous Memory.

While Watching His Sheep, Jacques Inaudi Occupied His Mind by Working Out Sums.

Up in the north of Italy, not far from the city of Turin, in the mountain land that lies to the south of the rugged line of the Alps, about 1875, a little boy set engaged in the usual occupation of small boys in that rural region—watching sheep. There was nothing for him to do except to look at his woolly charges, or off at the line of hills that shuts in the sky on all sides. His name was Jacques Inaudi. His home was a little hotel scarcely worthy of the name of home. His people were the poor people of the region, peasants who could provide little or nothing for their children.

There was just one way in which Jacques Inaudi was different from the scores of other boys in his neighborhood who likewise had been set to watch flocks. The others sat, idly, scarcely thinking, or else they threw stones, or played with their dogs, or built little walls and houses with sticks and rubble. Jacques Inaudi kept his boyish mind as active as though he were in a schoolroom. He counted his sheep, estimated wool they produced, the amount of grass they ate, the number of lambs there were likely to be, the amount of money they would bring, and the number of people they would furnish food and clothing.

At first he did this merely as an idle amusement. He had no paper on which to write, and there were few flat stones on which he could make records; so he was obliged to remember the facts that he observed. Soon he found that his memory was as good as any flat stone on which he could write, and as good as any paper that he might have. As he had nothing else to do, he continued to cultivate his ability to do sums in his head. When people came along and talked to him he asked them to give him the answers to problems he gave them; then he laughed gayly when they began to puzzle their heads and to write down figures. Soon he would flash out the correct answer, to their utter amazement. His fame spread and people took long journeys to hear him. They asked him difficult questions, to all of which he gave quick answers.

Here was a wonder; a boy who astonished every one. People found it profitable to take Jacques Inaudi away from the pleasant hills and to bring him before the public as a lightning calculator. As he grew older he continued to develop his amazing gift, and his fame continued to grow. Soon he was known all over Italy and in Europe as one of the most unusual of persons. He was taken before learned people and questioned, and he amazed the humblest people. He had so cultivated a remarkable natural gift that in manhood—for it is now fifty-five years since he was born—he could, as it were, actually see before him the figures that were given him to use. By cultivating a natural gift he raised himself from poverty into riches and fame.

The Only Difficulty.

Edwin Lefevre, the Wall Street expert, said at a roof garden dinner in Philadelphia:

"Now that wireless broadcasting is such a fad, there are innumerable companies selling wireless stock."

"A wireless stock salesman called on a country minister the other day."

"Doctor Stentzly," he said, "I'll sell you a million shares of our stock for half a dollar. In six weeks the shares will be quoted at 95 cents. Think of it! You'll be a rich man."

"But," said Doctor Stentzly, in his cautious way, "why don't you hold onto the shares and become a rich man yourself?"

"I would," said the salesman, "only you see, I need a shave—and how would I look if I waited six weeks?"

Bees Brought Into Court.

An Akron man is suing for an injunction to restrain his neighbor's bees from stinging plaintiff, his tenants, guests or "help." Also he asks $500 damages for last season's bee-stinging activities. Plaintiff, says Capper's Weekly, alleges his neighbor keeps thirty hives, and whenever plaintiff ventures out to his garden or gather asparagus, the insects come over and play with him, and always they are so rough that he is driven indoors and his garden is neglected. He figures he lost $200 that way last year. It will be interesting to see if the bees will obey the law better than man.

Quite a Joke.

I was calling upon a woman who kept me waiting in the drawing room an unendurable time before coming down.

In my mind I was pondering what form her apology would take, and so absorbed was I that when she did come down I said: "I am so sorry to have kept you waiting."

We both laughed, but I was fearfully embarrassed.—Chicago Tribune.

Nothing to It, Brother!

BULLETIN DISCUSSES WATERMELON DISEASE

Farmers Have Been Slow to Adopt Control Measures.

Convenient Descriptive Key Given to Different Ailments of Plant Enabling Growers to Determine Cause of Trouble.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is not surprising that farmers who produce watermelons for the market have been slow to adopt disease-control measures when frequently buyers pay just as high a price to growers of diseased melons as to those who produce healthy ones, says the United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin 1277, Diseases of Watermelons, just off the press. However, there is at this time a movement toward co-operation between railroads, distributors and growers that promises great improvement in this respect.

The bulletin discusses and gives control measures for such diseases as wilt, root-knot, gummy stem blight, ground-rot, anthracnose, stem-end rot, and minor diseases. It contains a convenient descriptive key to all these diseases, by means of which a grower may identify a disease in his field.

Briefly, the control measures for a few of the principal diseases are as follows:

Wilt is avoided by planting on land not previously used for watermelons, with precautions against the use of wilt infested stable manure and the spread of the disease by drainage water and live stock.

Root-knot can be prevented by the use of land free from infestation, or by rotating infested fields with root-knot immune crops.

Anthracnose is controlled by thorough spraying with bordeaux mixture, during the month preceding the maturity of the crop.

For stem-end rot the most important measure is the disinfection of the cut stems with a bluestone paste as the melons are loaded into cars.

Infection by the organisms that cause anthracnose, gummy stem blight, and ground rot may be reduced by seed disinfection, provided the crop is planted on soil that is free from these diseases and in case barnyard manure containing the organisms is not used.

Copies of the bulletin may be had without cost by addressing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

CO-OPERATIVE MILK PLANTS

Those Interested Will Find Many of Their Problems Solved in Recent Bulletin.

Those interested in establishing co-operative milk marketing plants will find many of their problems handled in a bulletin recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Ask for the department bulletin entitled "Producers' Co-operative Milk-Producing Plants."

The bulletin is based upon studies of experience in a large number of plants both large and small, but special emphasis is placed upon established plants in small cities where a satisfactory system of distribution does not exist.

Details are given on contracts, financing plant equipment, organization, sales methods, distribution costs and accounting systems.

CORN MOST IMPORTANT CROP

Quantity of Yield Is Greatly Influenced by the Quality of Seed Used by Farmer.

Corn is the most important crop in the United States, both in acreage and in value. The quantity of yield is greatly influenced by the quality of the seed planted, says the United States Department of Agriculture. A practical way to decrease the cost of harvesting the crop if it is to be fed to hogs is to let the hogs do the harvesting or "hogging down" by turning them into the fields in the fall.

HIGH PROTEIN FEED COSTLY

Amount of Gluten and Meal Purchased May Be Reduced by Growing Alfalfa and Clover.

Protein in the form of high protein feeds is extremely expensive. The amount of gluten feed, cottonseed meal, and linseed oil meal ordinarily purchased can be reduced by the production of roughage rich in protein, such as alfalfa and clover. Heavy grain feeding is also expensive, and the quantity of grain fed can be lowered by growing roughages of high feeding value.

CROP ROTATION IS FAVORED

Gardener Can Avoid Enormous Annual Loss From Attacks of Insects and Diseases.

There is a rule scratched down in the notebook of many good gardeners that reads something like this: "Never allow cabbage to follow cauliflower or cauliflower to follow cabbage." The reason for this rule is that both crops are attacked by the same kinds of diseases and insects, and by rotating them with other vegetables losses from these pests are often avoided.

MISS HAM'S VERSES

"Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham. "There are such nice words that rhyme with pig that I do believe I shall think up some verses and then, when I have thought them up, I will recite them to you all."

"Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal," laughed Porky Pig. "You say that as though it would be a treat for us to listen to them."

"And so it will be," said Miss Ham. "It will be a great treat, grunt grunt. 'You'd better make up your verses first,' said Pinky Pig. 'You can't tell how they might turn out. That is my advice to you.'"

"Of course I didn't ask your advice," said Miss Ham.

"But I'm giving it to you free," said Pinky Pig. "That shows my fine, generous nature."

"Oh, does it, indeed?" squealed Miss Ham. "Creatures who never give anything free except advice I haven't so much use for, and this is the first time I have ever known you to give anything free."

"Well, it is just as well to make a beginning," said Pinky Pig. "I begin by giving free advice—I can't tell what I may end up in giving."

"I can guess, though," said Porky Pig.

"I can guess, too," said Sammy Sausage.

"So can I, squeal, squeal," said Sir Percival Pork.

"And I can guess, grunt, grunt," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"I can guess and my guess will be right," said Brother Bacon.

"I am sure I can guess, if my child takes after me," said Pinky Pig's mother.

"So can I," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"And so can I, squeal, squeal," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"Well, instead of all talking about being able to guess what I may end up

"I Don't Ask Your Advice."

In giving—guess, then!" squealed Pinky Pig.

And all the pigs grunted and squealed, "You'll end up by not giving anything more than the advice you start off giving."

And Pinky Pig grunted and twisted his tail, but he had nothing to say for he knew that this was the truth.

"You're all talking so much and you're not giving me the chance to recite my verses," said Miss Ham.

"But you said you were going to think them up first," said Porky Pig.

"So I did, but it doesn't take me forever to think up verses," said Miss Ham.

"Gracious," said Porky, "do you mean to tell me you have thought up more than one already?"

"Most certainly," said Miss Bacon.

"Well, did I ever," said Porky Pig.

"You'd better recite them," said Pinky Pig. "and then, as I said, we'll be able to tell and you'll be able to tell how they've turned out. Just because there are a lot of words which rhyme with pig doesn't mean that your verses will be beautiful. There are words which rhyme with love and many a poet has used them, but it all depends upon the poet or the verse writer what sort of verses they become."

"Let her recite them," said Porky Pig.

So Miss Bacon twisted her tail and recited:

It's old, old news to hear that a pig. In the good old mud just loves to dig. But old news is good news, in this case at least.

For there's nothing such fun as a mud-digging feast.

"Fair," said Pinky Pig. "Only fair. And not particularly true, for there are lots of things more fun than mud-digging. Eating, for example."

"Give her a little poetic freedom," said Porky Pig. "In poetry she's not supposed to be too exact. Pray continue," Porky added.

I love to grunt and I love to squeal. But most of all I love to feel That the farmer soon will come to feed Those who revel in their greed.

"Better," said Pinky Pig. "Slightly better."

And then Miss Ham recited her last one:

There are those who say that love is sweet. There are those who say it is a treat. An old, old friend again to meet. But I say it's sweet to eat!

And the pigs thought this was the best of all.

fuls of dark brown sugar, one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour. Cook until smooth, add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and any kind of chopped nuts. Serve over ice cream.

Nut Salad.—Chop equal parts of almonds, walnuts and pecans. Moisten with salad dressing and arrange on rounds of pineapple in a nest of lettuce. Serve with wafers.

Kentucky Salad.—Take one-half of a can of pineapple, cut into large pieces, dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in one cupful of hot water, add one cupful of pineapple juice, the pineapple, blanched whole almonds, three small sweet pickles cut into very thin slices. Mold and serve with mayonnaise and whipped cream on crisp lettuce leaves.

Banana Croquettes.—Peel the fruit, scraping the banana to remove all fibers, cut off each end and dip the fruit into lemon juice, then into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve as a garnish to the roast, surrounding it on the platter.

Molded Fish.—Butter an oval mold or a fish mold, lay in it a strip of boned fish, then a layer of buttered bread crumbs, season with melted butter, onion juice, pepper, salt and curry; add more fish until the mold is full. Moisten with half a cupful of fish stock or milk, an egg to bind the mixture. Bake one-half hour, unmold and serve with a hot tomato sauce.

Desert Terror.

The hog-nosed viper, the real terror of the Southwest, is found in southern New Mexico and in Arizona. No more repulsive creature than this could well be imagined. It derives its name from its turned-up nose, which curiously resembles the snout of the hog. Over its eyes stand two hornlike scales that look something like the goggles worn by chauffeurs. It rarely attains a length exceeding 18 inches. It hides in the sand, which is precisely of the same color as its body. A circumstance that is likely to lead the wanderer to tread upon it accidentally. Many sheep herders have been fatally bitten by this reptile. Its fangs are almost like those of the rattlesnake and its venom is fully as deadly.

Important Step in Journalism.

The older James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald was the first journalist to distinguish himself by an important enterprise in the telegraphing of news at heavy expense, and under no ordinary difficulties. This was prior to the combination of the Associated Press. The occasion referred to was when Henry Clay delivered a speech on the Mexican war, at Lexington, Ky., in 1846. The speech was sent by express a distance of 80 miles from Lexington to Cincinnati, and then telegraphed to New York, where it was received early in the morning after its delivery, and was published in the Herald.

Bird Brought Calm Weather.

Fung, a fabled weather bird, of royal lineage, long-tailed and green of hue, has become one of the valued bits of property aboard the Oriental liner President McKinley, says Lee Matthews, purser. Fung dates his origin back to a family of royal birds of the province of Hunan, China.

At any rate, Fung brought summer weather to the last round trip of the liner. Soon after the ship left Yokohama the wind rose and lashed the sea into combers. Fung perched on the compass. Immediately calm prevailed and summer skies accompanied the ship through 8,000 miles—Portland Oregonian.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

To those who thoroughly enjoy the out-of-doors, Dodge Brothers Touring Car represents tens of thousands of invigorating miles in the open air.

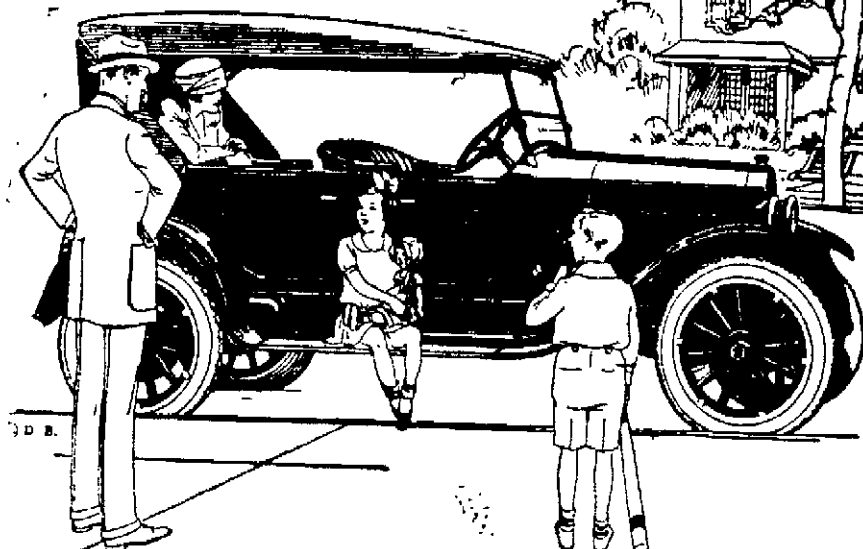

And owners who have had long experience with the car, know how trouble-free those miles are, and how little it costs to enjoy them.

They know, too, how light and convenient the Touring Car is and how easily cleaned.

Dodge Brothers power plant, the all-steel body, the permanent baked-on enamel finish, the genuine leather upholstery—all combine to explain why more than 850,000 owners almost invariably speak of the car in terms of highest praise.

The price is $2000.00 delivered.

Good-Bye to the Old Corner Building

Into the corner store and back out again is one of our lanes in the progress of the store of Luckey, Platt & Company. For many years we occupied the upper floors of this corner building, then known as the Carpenter & Parkhill store, and finally we obtained full possession of the building, buying it, and occupying this property in 1916.

Then when the plans were first made for this big half million dollar addition, now in the process of being built, we began to take down the upper floors, and left the street floor for business up until the present time.

Now we are going to move out of this store altogether, and when we move back into the space, it will be a part of the spacious building planned for you. (The architect's drawing is now being displayed in one of our Main street windows). And so this is a part of our steady march toward this mammoth improvement.

Workmen Will Begin Tearing Down Luckey's Corner the Morning of May 28th

But all the while we will still be doing business, giving you the least possible trouble but making many changes.

The Men's Department will go into Aisle C.

The Knit Underwear Department will go in with the Muslin Underwear on the Second Floor.

The Umbrellas will go in Aisle A.

The Table Linens and Towels will go in Aisle D.

The Bed Linens will go in Aisle B.

The Wash Goods and Blankets will go in Aisle B.

The Grocery Department will go in the Furniture Building which will be reached through Aisle D.

The Bundle Counter and Information Desk will go in the Furniture Building. The Cut Glass and Silverware will go to the basement.

And so on, changes will be made, and planned, to give you the best possible service during the rebuilding.

A Big Sale Planned to Reduce the Stocks

It is almost a physical impossibility to crowd all the stocks of these departments into such a small space, and so we find it necessary to remove the stocks to a great degree. We cannot just say to you, come in and buy our merchandise—we must make it worth your while to help us take these stocks off our hands. And so we have pulled out merchandise, remarked it, and planned to place on sale on Monday morning (May 21st), one of the biggest events this store has ever held.

Our plan is your profit—we must make room—we cannot do it without removing stock—stock will not be bought by you unless we make the prices low enough to make it an incentive—so the sale opened Monday.

It is not a sale of season ends because the season is in its best time; it is not a sale of specially bought merchandise, because we are crowded for room now even for our regular lines; it is not a sale made to stimulate business, but a sale forced upon us.

We trust you will be with us early in this big selling event. One week is all the time we have. The workmen will begin immediately on Monday morning, May 28th, to raze the building. There will be nearly five hundred items in this big bargain event.

FARM MARES ARE MOST DESIRABLE

Besides Doing Her Share of Work Animal Has Produced Many Highly Valuable Colts.

PLACE DOUBLE DUTY ON THEM

Two Outstanding Requirements Are That They Be Breeders and Workers—Purebred Give Better Returns Than Grades.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The small farmer who works a pair of mares will find it possible and profitable to raise a pair of good colts from them while they are doing their regular work. It is not uncommon, says the United States Department of Agriculture, to read of some remarkable mare that, besides doing her share of the farm work, has raised many hundreds of dollars' worth of colts. These accounts seldom tell of more than one such mare on a particular farm, whereas to obtain the greatest returns nearly all the work animals maintained on the farm should be mares of this character.

Breeding the working mares places double duty on them; consequently they must be robust individuals properly formed and must have good care and treatment. With two sources of profit from one animal, farmers can well afford to pay more for such stock, feed it more heavily, and give it special attention. The small farmer is the one who is most likely to get the best results from such a plan, because he usually works his own teams or is in position to watch them closely and see that they are not ill treated.

Breeders and Workers.

The two outstanding requirements in profitable farm mares are that they be breeders and workers. If a good registered stallion is available, purebred mares of the same breed will probably give better returns than grades. It costs practically no more to raise a grade, and the returns are much greater. The amount of capital that can be invested in the mares would be an important factor in determining whether purebreds should be used. The particular breed that the purebreds or grades should conform to would depend largely on local markets. Some communities are noted for and attract buyers of high-class drafters; others have local dealers who handle many choice harness horses, and still others have a steady outlet for saddle horses; consequently in a locality favored with any such markets it is generally advisable to breed the prevailing type, since by so doing sales are more easily made and the services of high-class stallions are practically assured.

However, some persons have a decided preference for a particular breed or type, and where this is so a greater success often will be made in raising the kind naturally preferred, although it must be remembered that it is difficult to show a profit when raising something for which there may be a limited demand. It is generally accepted that light horses are best suited to rolling and semi-mountainous land, while drafters are more adaptable to level country.

Uniformity Desirable.

The uniformity in the mares kept on a particular farm generally is not given much consideration. There is satisfaction and convenience in having mares similar enough in type and action so that one can readily fill the place of another at any kind of farm work. Such mares are especially desirable when it is necessary to work three or four abreast. In case four are needed to a wagon, it is a good advertisement of the owner's judgment and ability as a horseman to have them all uniform, in good condition, and hooked up to a nicety. If the mares resemble one another and are bred to the same stallion it will often be possible to sell the young horses as pairs, in which form they nearly always sell at a premium. The market for horses bred in this manner will not be overworked very soon, as readily will be attested by any one who has been confronted with the difficult task of purchasing from farmers mated pairs of a certain type.

SUPPORT HELPS DWARF PEAS

Crop Will Do Better If Given Narrow Strip of Chicken Wire to Make Its Start.

Although the dwarf peas will grow well without support they will do better, even the most dwarfed, if given a width of narrow chicken wire to start them into upright growth. The taller of the dwarf section, those that grow two feet or more high, need this support and some of the flatter of the dwarf section attain this height.

CHECK ON FERTILIZER BILL

If the Farmer Will Give Legumes Fair Chance They Will Repay Him Hundredfold.

Legumes are always ready to help lessen the fertilizer bill. Give them a fair chance, treat them as you would a true friend and you will be repaid a hundredfold; remember, it is the legumes that have been credited not only with boarding themselves, but paying for the privilege.

Waiting-List Denied Rank.

At one time the general use of walking-sticks was forbidden in Rome by imperial edict, except to persons of patrician rank, thus making it a privilege which came to be popular among the nobility and eventually a distinction.

250 WORKERS START OUT TO GET

for the churches but should be one of the most valuable assets of the churches as well as of the city, as it would be if the community would make it so. Today the world realizes that spiritual not material forces are the vital ones, and we are now praying the prayer, "O God, may we never use the body and soul of men, to make things with, as tools."

So the speaker hoped we would provide a splendid home with careful influences to surround the girls of our city and those who come to our city, and he brought the workers not to feel for one moment that they were going out to beg for money. They were going out to give others the privilege of helping to provide a home for the spirit and the material life of the girls and women here.

Again Mr. Reagan urged that this community more and more work together toward all things that go to the making of a life, not always just the making of a living. He warned against the way in which we are, all over the world today, running efficiency into the ground, and told of the man who visited a marvelously efficient plant where oil was being manufactured. He was shown about the place by a uniformed youth who was efficiency itself in his capacity as guide. The inspection completed, the man, having been shown a rule of purest oil, asked the price of the same. His guide replied: "O, we don't know yet how much it will be for we can only make enough now to oil our machinery with."

One of the finest things that would be an outgrowth of the Y. W. C. A., according to the speaker, was the friendship and mutual understanding between the girls and women of the community. No matter what the organization might be doing, if the Y. W. C. A. is to be a success there must always be some of the women of the community who will never be too tired to listen to the trouble of some girl who is beginning to lose her way.

And if the Y. W. C. A. is to be a success it will be the place where many a tired or discouraged girl will go at the end of a hard day to find a woman friend who will give her a friend's consideration and encouragement.

Finally, Mr. Reagan said that if the Y. W. C. A. is to be a success, the workers must all realize the importance of putting first things first. If they get the money too easily they will not appreciate the Y. W. C. A. as they will if it cost them something, not alone money, but real effort and self sacrifice in the campaign, to put it over the top.

Mr. Reagan said he would continue to be tremendously interested in the progress of this campaign, not only in the getting of the funds, for he felt sure that would be accomplished, but in the spirit with which it will be put over.

The speaker closed with a story of a friend of his, a college man, who went from his home to preach at another college. When it came time for his return, his little daughter asked her mother if she could go to meet her daddy. The mother said, "Yes," never thinking the child would go beyond her own doorway. But the little girl found the gate open and went through and on and on to find her daddy, who had returned by another way. On his arrival home the child was not there, and immediately, search for her was begun by the man and his friends.

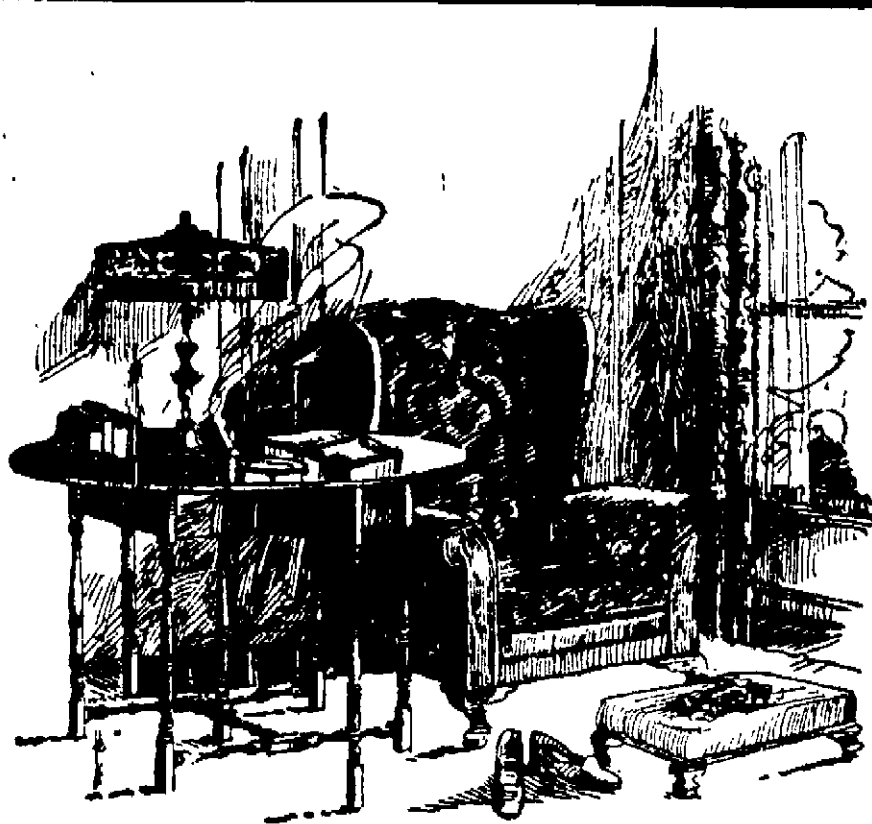

One of the friends found the child a mile and a half from home, but on the wrong road even though she was trying to find her daddy. The friend had hard work to get her to return with him, for she was determined upon going to meet her daddy. That child just had to find her father for three reasons, according to the speaker. She wanted to find her father; her father would not sleep until he had found her; the people of the community were friendly and wanted the father and daughter to meet. So it is with us. Many a girl and boy wants to meet her or his father. And they do not always realize that that father never sleeps until he finds them. In such a friendly organization as the Young Women's Christian Association there are those who want to have the father and daughter or son meet. That is the real spirit of the whole project.

Mrs. Rice said she knew that they had all greatly appreciated and enjoyed Mr. Reagan's address, but wanted that gentleman to know that the Kingston Y. W. C. A. was not going to use all of its oil for its own machinery. As Monday was the birthday of Grace Dodge, Mrs. Rice called upon Mrs. F. J. Higginson to give a brief sketch of the life of this wonderful woman who was really the founder of the Young Women's Christian Association, founding the national headquarters in New York city.

Mrs. Higginson paid a fine tribute to the memory of Miss Dodge, and taking note of the blue ribbon everywhere in evidence, Mr. Higginson asked that the workers about to go out on the campaign adopt Miss Dodge's triangle of faith, courage and work, and so adopting, make success an assured fact.

Next Mrs. Rice called upon Miss Sarah Horton, chairman of the finance committee, who was given rousing reception, for a few words. Miss Horton's words were few but they were weighted with treasure. She stated that the Board of Directors numbered twenty-four people, and that among that group she could report that $1,800 had already been pledged which called forth tremendous applause. Miss Horton, when the enthusiasm had subsided, warned the workers that to get the full $25,000, in the week would mean work and hard work, but that it would be worth that would more than pay.

Then Miss McLean, who was more than delighted with the entire meeting and the splendid team work already shown, gave final instructions to the workers and it was announced that Miss Lillian Herdman, one of our own girls, will be from now on the business secretary. Miss McLean said that if all captains and workers would be promptly at headquarters

The Art of Selection

"A MAN is known by the company he keeps"—and equally he is known by the furniture he keeps and the good taste shown in the furnishing of his home.

Every woman, when she is entertaining, is keenly conscious of the impression her home is making on her guests. She likes to feel the sense of assurance which comes from the knowledge that her home is furnished correctly and in good taste—that it expresses the modern note.

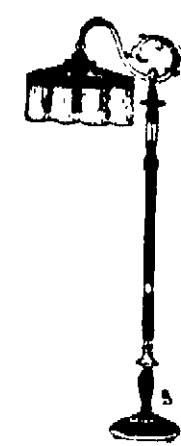

Contrary to the popular belief, expensive interior decoration is not necessary in achieving a well furnished home; the secret lies in "the art of selection," in choosing the right furniture for the right place—and here our experience and expert knowledge are at your service.

The Romance of Furniture

A MISUNDERSTOOD genius working in poverty in a dingy shop in London, Thomas Sheraton, created the famous straight-line style of furniture which immortalized his name, and which has never been excelled in the classic purity of its lines.

"Hunting Big Game" Provides Unusual Thrills.

"Fury," starring Richard Barthelmess and Dorothy Gish, at Keweenaw until Wednesday, proves a stirring sea drama, packed with interest and thrills, ships and storms and seas, a romance of rolling decks and roaring lighthouse, of a boy who wouldn't believe all women bad and a girl who thought all men were. Starting Thursday, Norma Talma and Eugene O'Brien in "The Voice of the Minaret," is the super-special attraction at Kingston's popular photoplay palace.

"Hunting Big Game" at the Opera House three times daily this week, is fascinating from the opening shots of over a million penguins filing into the ocean, and whale hunters shooting harpoons into huge whales, to the close-up of a giant African elephant charging into the camera, which makes you want to get up out of your seat and hunt for a tree.

There is action in every foot of the picture. A wealth of material has enabled Mr. Snow to be more than generous.

There is comedy: the antics of a herd of giraffes provide a hearty laugh, human interest, the native "crackers" at work, drama, buzzards feasting from stricken oxen, charging rhinoceros, sinking lions, a deadly puff adder in camp, the stampede of a herd of maddened elephants.

Working under conditions that would discourage the most experienced photographers, Sidney Snow has secured some extraordinarily beautiful pictures. There is one shot of the black bulk of an elephant seen against what seemed to be white, dead trees that is stunning. Working with a twelve-inch lens, young Snow has been able to film animals miles off or achieve startling closeups of unsuspecting beasts. Boss Snow hunted in overalls, a cap and a fiver.

The cause of so many divorce cases—Men trying to fool their wives—Wives trying to fool their husbands—But husbands—you can't fool your wife, according to the Paramount picture by that name which is now being shown at the Orpheum. Don't miss it.

Harry Carey in "The Canyon of Fools," is the feature picture at the Auditorium today. The comedy is Star Darsel in "The Egg."

MAY ARRANGE NEW DETOUR AT KATSBAN.

Through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce of Saugerette it is probable a new Catskill road will be arranged for, to avoid traffic going via Katsbaan road to Harbors, as at present. Superintendent W. K. McCoy, of the New York Central Railroad, was in Saugerette and looked over the ground, that of opening the former road west of the railroad tracks at Walden and having an outlet just north of the railroad bridge. If this is arranged it will be greatly appreciated by the traveling public, as it will avoid a long stretch and bring traffic back on the main road, the former E. P. Simmon place.

FIVE BOUTS AT ELKS' SMOKER

Four boxing bouts of four rounds each, a two round extra bout, and vaudeville acts were features of the smoker given Monday night at the Elks' Club. There was a large attendance and the program was enjoyed by all. The vaudeville artists were Miss Swan Wood in an interpretive dance, and Dorothy Keller and Betty North who made a big hit in vocal numbers. Edward Scenerer was the announcer in the boxing bouts the first being between Benny Coster of New York, who has had much ring experience and who got the better of Young Lawrence of this city. Merante, a clever youth from Philadelphia, was to short for William Ray of this city, whose long reach was a handicap for Merante in their four round go. Banks, from Goldrick's Landing, was too swift for Bob McHenry who was kept going every minute during the bout, although McHenry kept moving until the finish. Kid Tyler of Montreal, who knows how to use both fists, made it lively for Battling Reddick from Goldrick's Landing and the men mixed it up good and proper for the four rounds, Tyler being awarded the most points. For good measure Tyler took on a boxer named Wolford and after going the first round and part of the second Wolford said it was time for him to stop, and the bout was stopped. The Elks are arranging to hold another smoker in about a month.

Youngster's Wit.

One of the big buses which takes crippled school children to and from school was waiting with its load of little ones beside a street car which was taking on passengers. Among those getting on was a woman who had difficulty in mounting the step. Her arms were weighed down with parcels. The while she looked about her, puzzled as to how the feat was to be accomplished, one of the crippled boys in the motor bus, called to a man who had about made up his mind to help the woman on the car: "That's right, mister, help her on; it's hard for old ladies to climb."—Detroit News.

British Women on Railroads.

Nearly 30,000 women are employed by the railways of the United Kingdom. Of this total the majority, of course, are employed in clerical work. A considerable number, however, are engaged in work not usually done by women. Nearly 100 are employed as laborers and a thousand more are classed as "mechanics and artisans." There are women signmen, stationmasters, foremen, policemen, engine cleaners, oilers and greasers, and at least one who is engaged in the dangerous and arduous work of a switchman.

Carried It Too Far.

Some one asked Professor Steinhilber of Vienna, whose rejuvenation experiments are widely known, if there wasn't considerable danger in the process. "Of course, the thing can be overdone," he replied with a smile. "I am told that a woman met a friend of hers on the street wheeling a perambulator in which sat a chubby infant. 'I did not know you had a baby,' said the first woman in surprise. 'I haven't,' replied the other despondently. 'This is my husband—he has been to Doctor Steinhilber.'—Boston Transcript.

The committee voted to send copies of the resolution to President Harding, the congress and the French ambassador to the United States.

PLAN INCREASED EGG PRODUCTION

Interesting Experiment Being Made to Show Value of Breeding and Selection.

TO DETERMINE GOOD LAYERS

Not Necessary for Flock Owner to Use Trapnet to Detect Best Fowls—Hard Worker Can Be Told by Lateness of Moulting.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

With no other equipment than good eyes, a sense of judgment, and a determination to apply a little knowledge, the average farm poultry raiser can increase the egg production of his flock in a single season, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. An interesting experiment is being made on the department's experimental farm to show the value of breeding and selecting daughters from good producing hens for layers, and the possibility of determining these good layers by only seeing and handling them. One year's results are now available and clearly prove the advantages of selecting the good layers in the flock by their appearance and retaining only their daughters for egg production.

Detect Heavy Layers.

It is natural to assume that the daughters of hens that are long-time layers will in turn be long-distance performers, and it is not necessary for the farm-flock owner to use a trapnet to detect these heavy layers. Improvement can best be made in the fall in selecting these good layers but much progress can also be made in the spring by breeding only from the best hens in the flock. In the fall the hard worker can be determined by the lateness of her moulting. Her weathered and ragged appearance late in the fall, provided it is not from ill health, means that she is still in her summer working clothes and bent on keeping up the good work of the summer as long as her energy lasts. The late moulter is the one to select at that time and from which to save the eggs in the spring for hatching.

For the work on the experimental farm, 35 late moulters were selected from 100 pullets that had laid all summer. The daughters from these 35 selected layers produced in one year a return above feed cost of $1.65 more per bird than the hens in the original flock. Other flocks have been started on the experimental farm to further demonstrate that the high-producing hens can be selected without the aid of a trapnet and that their daughters retained in the flock will increase the average of the egg production.

Mark Heavy Layers.

During the winter it often is possible to note the hens that are laying. Remembering that a hen in order to be a large producer should be a winter layer, it is advisable to mark these winter layers and in the breeding season separate them from the rest of the flock and save their eggs for the spring hatch. The main thing to strive for in a farm flock to make it pay well is large egg production. Large egg production goes hand in hand with vigor and stamina. Select the hens that are alert and that are early off the roost. Medium sized hens are often the best layers. Large, fat hens will lack vigor.

This test by the department serves to show that great improvement in the average egg yield is obtained by knowing the good layers and by hatching the future layers from them. While a trapnet is the sure method of selection, it is seldom practical on the average farm. Hence, a little time devoted to selection from observation may be well spent.

FEEDING POTATOES TO PIGS

Peculiarly Valuable as Supplement in Fattening—Boil Them in Feed Cooker.

Since it will be to the advantage of potato growers to get rid of all undersized and injured potatoes at home, the best method of feeding this product to the pigs will be of interest to many. Potatoes are peculiarly valuable as a supplement in fattening pigs. The best practice is to cook the potatoes, drain off the water and then mix the potatoes with grain at the rate of about three parts of potatoes to one part of the grain. Boil the potatoes in a feed cooker and then do the mixing in a barrel with a piece of board of suitable length. Thus prepared, liberal quantities may be fed to fattening hogs and also to brood sows and small pigs.

THREAT TO POTATO GROWING

Tip Burn is Serious in Many Sections—Bordeaux Mixture Effective in Controlling.

Tip burn has come to be known as probably the most serious menace to the potato growing industry in this country. It became so serious in many sections that growers during the last few years gave it up. Scientists at the Iowa State college have been testing the value of bordeaux mixture for spray on potato plants, and find it the most effective agency in controlling tip burn. The average gain in yield during the seven years was 25 per cent.

Youthful Mrs. Wainwright. She was a nice little thing, but somewhat of a Malaprop turn of mind. "You know," she said, "I think we shall be going this year to our little place in the Austrian Alps. It's very hilly, but they've got lovely terraced railway."—London Echo.

There are so many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran—the one great aid to humanity!

You will enjoy eating Kellogg's Bran because its nut-like flavor appeals to the taste. And, think what each spoonful is doing to drive constipation out of your system and to establish health! That's because it is KELLOGG'S BRAN. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically made to relieve suffering humanity—IT WILL DO THAT AS NO OTHER FOOD CAN!

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic cases and as a preventive. Use, often each day and in proper quantity, sweeps, cleanses and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get away from pills and cathartics—Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with common bran. Kellogg's is cooked, crumbled and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regulatory value. Try cereal bread or muffins or griddle-cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is nationally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. It can also be cooked with cereal. In each case add two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

COURT TO DECIDE ZAIFERT ACTION

To Recover Damages in Deal for Bennett Farm—One Case Settled, One Dismissed and Hasbrouck-Yager Action is Being Tried.

The action which was taken up in supreme court Friday to recover damages from Stephen D. Bennett for failure to fulfill a contract of sale for his farm was taken from the jury Monday afternoon and will be decided by the court. Sol Zaifert and another brought the action to recover damages when, it is alleged, Mr. Bennett failed to carry out a contract. Mr. Bennett owned a farm which plaintiffs contracted to buy. Plaintiffs claimed that when it came to taking title they were unable to get a clear title because Mr. Bennett's wife was not mentally fit to sign the deed. Defendant claims that he was ready to fulfill the contract and that his wife was suffering from a stroke of paralysis which prevented her from talking but did not interfere with her mental capacity and that title could have been taken and that he was ready to carry out the deal. A mutual agreement between parties to extend the time for closing the contract was testified to by Mr. Clons, attorney for plaintiffs, testified that he had gone to the Bennett home and had interviewed defendant's wife and that from this interview he judged that she was mentally unable to pass title in her interest and so advised his client, Cleon B. Murray and F. G. Traver appeared for defendant. An action growing out of the operation of the Pine Hill electric lighting plant was announced as settled Monday afternoon in supreme court and was stricken from the day calendar. Fred R. De Garmo of this city who erected the transmission line in the village, brought an action against Steve O'Connor, owner of the plant. William D. and William D. Brinnier Jr. appeared for plaintiff and Barney & Stoneham appeared for defendant. No 152 an action on contract brought by the Chicago Portrait Company against M. A. Thomas and others, was dismissed on the merits and was also stricken from the day calendar. Henry Klein appeared for the plaintiff company, Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier for the defendants.

Joseph E. Hasbrouck of Modena has brought an action in supreme court against Nelson H. Yager of Modena his next door neighbor to recover the loss of $9 young apple trees which were destroyed when fire swept a part of a valuable young orchard of Mr. Hasbrouck which adjoins the Yager property. Mr. Hasbrouck claims that the fire spread to the orchard from a small fire which had been lighted in the Yager yard and which was left unattended.

At the time of the fire Mr. Hasbrouck was in the south and had left his farm in charge of his son. The Yager property consists of an acre lot which was sold from the Hasbrouck farm a number of years ago and upon which is the Yager house and outbuildings. The Hasbrouck orchard of 8 acres of young trees which had just come into bearing adjoins the Yager lot and had just been heavily pruned with old dry limbs. The fire took place on Sunday March 26 1922.

According to Mr. Hasbrouck, he was at home when his attention was called to a fire in the orchard. He ran over to the orchard and in crossing the Yager garden noticed a pile of ashes in the garden some twenty or thirty feet from the line. He arrived at the orchard and found Mr. and Mrs. Yager and their son attempting to put out the fire which was burning briskly. The apple trees have been mulched with about 12 or 16 inches of old dry hay for a distance equal to the spread of the branches. Between the trees the old grass and weeds was not so thick upon the ground and this prevented the flames from spreading rapidly between the trees but when the fire reached the dry hay Mr. Hasbrouck testified it went up like a puff of powder burning. The flames went twice as high as the trees and the branches were burned and the trees died.

With the assistance of neighbors called by Mr. Hasbrouck's daughter the fire was put out after 80 trees had been killed. Others where the mulch was not so deep were damaged but did not die. Testimony was introduced to the effect that each tree yielded about 3 barrels of fruit the preceding year. The trees had been set out about 1910 and were of a choice variety, most of them being King David trees.

Testimony on the part of one of the men who came was to the effect that when he reached the fire it was burning back from the state road about four rows of trees and gradually gained on him until when it was finally extinguished along the road had burned out to the first row. He described the fire as burning fan shaped from the Yager lot. After the fire was out the fire fighters went to the Yager lot where it was testified Mr. Yager pointed out the spot where the fire had been and said that he had been burning rubbish and had gone into the house to eat dinner when his wife noticed the fire in the orchard and they went out and attempted to put it out.

The wind according to testimony was blowing from the southwest toward the Hasbrouck orchard.

J. E. Hasbrouck, Jr. testified that he could notice a snake like trail where the fire had burned from the Yager fire over the orchard. Other witnesses testified that they had not noticed this.

The case was continued this morning when plaintiff resumed his side of the case.

Judge J. G. Van Etten is trying the case for Mr. Brinnier who is attorney of record for plaintiff and Frank W. Brooks is trying the case for E. H. Houghtaling, attorney for defendant.

"To Put One's Foot in It"
This colloquialism means to commit a blunder or to ruin some scheme or enterprise by an awkward inadvertence. The original expression seems to have been, "The bishop has put his foot in it," said of soup or milk when it was burnt. Gross explains the allusion as meaning that when the bishop passes by in procession, the cook runs out to get a blessing and leaves whatever she may be cooking to take its chance of burning.—Chicago Journal.

Four Famous Bibles.

When John Baskerville was appointed printer to the University of Cambridge in the eighteenth century, he devoted much of his time to the printing of Bibles, four copies of which are now known to be in existence. Spartan lodge, F. and A. M., of Freeport, Long Island, is the fortunate possessor of one of these, its copy bearing the date of 1760. Of the others, one is owned by the British museum, one by the royal family and the third changed hands in Chicago not long since for $10,000. The Freeport Bible was the property of Thomas Alderly, Stopford of Belmore, L. I., who, having no direct descendant, decided to give this Bible, which had been in his family for several generations, to his Masonic lodge.

Well Social Institution in India. Daily, from Suva to the Pacific, millions of women fill millions of pitchers at wells and sources. The jar is heavy and fragile. The face under the full vessel often shows the strain of its weight and the ground about each fountain has its tale of broken pitchers to tell. In India the well is a social institution. In some villages there are wells for high-caste people and others for low-caste people. In some, members of low castes must depend upon the bounty of their betters, who gain merit by filling gingerly the vessels of the defiling ones. But in all, the well is a center of life. So it is throughout the East.
